Consolidation Study to Go on Ballot Backed by Twice the Quota of Names

January 1, 1981.

Don't hold your breath waiting for it, and don't even mark your calendar, unless you do it in pencil. But that is the date the two Princetons–Borough and Township–could begin operating together under a consolidated form of government, if the process now being set in motion continues with no snags.

The first step, at least, is now a certainty. Voters in the general election this November will have the opportunity to decide if a committee to study–not enact–consolidation should be formed. The voters also could elect representatives to the committee at that time.

If that joint committee is formed, with five members from the Township and five from the Borough, then it will have nine months to study the consolidation question, during which time it can either scrap the idea or, more likely, suggest a form that a consolidated government might take. Then, the consolidation issue itself can be referred to the voters, for enactment or rejection, in the 1979 general election.

And then, if voters approve, officials of the newly-formed government could be elected in November, 1980, and take office on January 1, 1981.

All that is heady talk for a community that has done much talking about consolidation but taken little action. The only time the issue came before the voters, in 1953, consolidation was resoundingly defeated in both the Township (the doughnut) and the Borough (the hole).

But that all important first step is being completed this week. The citizens committee in the Township, which needed the signatures of 553 voters on a petition calling for the placement of the consolidation commission question on the ballot. It is expected to deliver twice that many–"just to show how much support there is," in the words of the committee co-chairman, Stanley Smoyer.

The citizens committee in the Borough, chaired by William Selden, needed 321 signatures, 10 percent of the number of voters in the last general election. The Borough committee came in with twice that many.

Both committees now are looking for candidates to run for positions on the study committee. Township residents should contact Mr. Smoyer or the co-chairman, Jay Bleiman. Borough residents should contact any of the representatives of the citizens committee: Mr. Selden, Ingrid Reed, Niels Nielsen, Henry Powsner or William H. Walker.

Candidates also must circulate petitions. They need half as many signatures as those required of the committees.

Proponents of consolidation believe that this time around they may have their best chance of all. The consolidation procedure itself, newly defined by state law, is more democratic and more orderly. "Under the procedure used back in 1953," Mr. Smoyer pointed out, "there was only one vote. A joint

Planners' Committee Will Continue To Study Design of Borough Garage

Borough Council took its proposal for a multi-level parking garage before the Environmental Design Review Committee of the Planning Board last Friday evening. The result was about as clear as the long-range weather forecast for the holiday weekend.

Reeves Hicks, the attorney for the Council, saw rays of sunshine: "They voted 5-0 to recommend the project to the Planning Board," said Mr. Hicks. "They also had all sorts of ideas for improvements which they were going to incorporate in a report that would go along to the Board."

Perry Morgan, a member of the review committee, saw a sky that was partly cloudy, or partly sunny, depending on one's viewpoint. "There were a great many things that meant it could be recommended for approval," he said. "But there were a few other things that still disturbed the committee."

Ulrich Frank, chairman of the committee, painted a picture of a dark sky with storm clouds on the horizon. "We did not vote for or against the garage," he said, contradicting the impression of Mr. Hicks. "The best we have is that we find no technical reasons to disapprove the project, but that isn't approval. There are some major points that I would like to discuss further with the committee."

The review committee will meet again this Monday at 7:30 in the Valley Road School. Mr. Frank promises that a report will be prepared in time for the meeting of the entire Planning Board, scheduled for the next Monday, July 17.

The plan as presented by the Borough had at least one silver lining, in Mr. Frank's assessment.

Consolidation Study

committee had to come up with a plan of government. It was not a study. The committee couldn't say if it thought the idea of consolidation was a good one.

"The new law gives the voters the benefit of being able to analyze the feasibility study," he said.

Other snags out of the past have been somewhat smoothed out. School financing already is being converted to a rateables basis, rather that a per pupil basis. Also, both Borough and Township already have planned re-evaulation of their tax properties. And a citizens group recommended in November, 1976, that the two governing bodies consolidate.

Neither Township Committee nor Borough Council ever formally discussed that report. But its message obviously has registered.

Borough Garage

"One of the major pluses," he said, "is the superb job done by the Borough engineer George Olexa, on the air quality question – what happens when a lot of cars are all started at once. It's a very complicated matter that was not fully explored even with the parking garage for the hospital."

The plan also had minuses, however, which Mr. Frank said he would not discuss in public until the Monday meeting.

Three Ordinances Involved. As the Environmental Design Review Committee made its deliberations, the Council was busy putting the garage proposal into motion. At its meeting last Thursday night, Council introduced three ordinances that would provide for the financing and operation of the garage.

One would establish a municipal parking utility; another would authorize a $4.7 million bond issue to finance construction of the garage; and a third would allow garage space to be reserved to meet off-street parking requirements in the central business district.

"There is really no opposition within Council to the general idea of a garage, or to this particular plan," said Councilman William Selden.

Nor are there any significant legal barriers to the plan. "The main thing," said Mr. Hicks, "is that it requires no bulk variances. It fits in with the 1974 Borough master plan, which calls for a parking garage right on that spot."

Keep in Motion. What the Council hopes, added Richard Woodbridge, "is to move expeditiously. With the financial consequences of starting something like this late, you have to keep the ball rolling. What we're looking for is the Planning Board's seal of approval. If we can obtain that, along with the board's constructive input, the parking garage will be easier to promote."

But the forecast still seemed uncertain. Some rumblings of opposition surfaced at Thursday night's meeting from a half dozen neighbors of the proposed garage. Ann McGoldrick of 25 Vandeventer Avenue questioned the concept in a prepared statement. "The garage is supposed to be self-sustaining," she wrote. "Why then is there a plan afoot to raise the cost of parking meters in town from 10 cents per hour to 20 cents per hour?"

Citing figures from the Planning Board's traffic consultant, she estimated that the garage would take nearly an hour to empty at rush hour. "Will merchants, employees, and shoppers really want to sit in their cars for such long periods in order to leave a garage every evening?"

Charles Cornforth raised another question at the meeting: On an issue of such importance, shouldn't the Council seek the views of the voters in a referendum?

Referendum Still Possible. Councilwoman Nelson van den Blink responded that "this is a representative government." Property owners can petition for a referendum, however.

While that course of action seemed unlikely at this point, the Council might still have to wrestle with the Environmental Design Review Committee and the Planning Board. Those are self-imposed hurdles but still important ones.

"It is true that municipalities by law need not abide by their own rules. They can put a huge neon sign on their parking garage if they want," said Mr. Frank. "But it would not be politic to bypass the committee created by the municipality to help it review plans submitted to it.

"If we disagree then it should be for rational reasons that can be discussed. Just like with any other applicant we can try to work it out. We have never been disagreeable and Mayor Cawley has always been mindful of the importance of our role."

Mr. Frank sounded as if the parking garage might yet have its days in the sun. But Council should bring umbrellas.

Hodge Road Neighbors Welcome New Owner of House at 142; 'Circle of Friends' Report 'Bittersweet' Feelings over Sale

'FRIENDS' OF BYRNE: When Governor Byrne was on the campaign trail last fall, he received volunteer help on several occasions from individuals associated with the Circle of Friends, the Morristown-based group which had hoped to buy the house at 142 Hodge Road. Here he poses with Peggy Reinauer, left, and Diane Desiderio. Mrs. Desiderio and her husband, John, later submitted the high bid in the state's sale of the Hodge Road house. The photographer was another of the Friends, Kathryn Juliette Ward.

The controversy over the sale of the house at 142 Hodge Road appears to be over. And in the end, money–$22,500 in all--talked.

Last week John and Diane Desiderio, the young couple who had submitted the highest bid in the auction of the state-owned house previously occupied by the chancellor of higher education, agreed to sell the property to a stock broker from Hawthorne in Northern New Jersey. The price was $235,000, which was $22,500 more than the Desiderios had bid for the house.

That gave the Desiderios, who are members of a Morristown-based group known as the Circle of Friends, a return of about 90 percent on their downpayment of $26,000 in about a month's time.

It gave the residents of Hodge Road, most of whom were opposed to the sale of the house to the Friends group, a new neighbor more in keeping with their image of the neighborhood.

The buyer is Paul Bagley, who works in the New York office of E.F. Hutton. Mr. Bagley had bid unsuccessfully for the property when the state first offered it for sale last year. At that time, the state received no bids that it considered acceptable.

A Happy Holiday. Mr. Bagley was reported to have been unaware of the second auction. But when residents in the vicinity of 142 Hodge Road banded together to try to buy the property back from the Friends group, Mr. Bagley read of their efforts in a newspaper. He contacted the residents and expressed his interest in purchasing the house at that price. The final deal was worked out between the Desiderios and Mr. Bagley by Princeton attorney Nicholas Miller, who had been hired by the Hodge Road residents.

By the time the holiday weekend began, Mr. Bagley could celebrate the ownership of his new home, and the Hodge Road residents could look forward to what they all hoped would be the end of many months of uncertainty about the house. Even before the current controversy came to light, the residents had complained about the deterioration of the property while it was owned by the state.

Friends Disappointed. Up in Morristown, in a handsome mansion owned by the Friends, the would-be buyers of 142 Hodge Road professed bittersweet feelings about their $22,500 capital gain.

The money was nice, said members of the group, which adheres to a philosophy of better living through health, wealth and wisdom. But they were disappointed in not being accepted as part of the Princeton community.

"They never took the trouble to learn about us," said George Jurcsek, the founder and leader of the group, referring to the residents of Hodge Road. "They seemed to think we were going to pack people into that house. We want to have more space for our people, so that they can be alone to study."

Peggy Reinauer, a 26-year old graduate of Montclair State College and a member of the group, added that the Hodge Road residents "thought we were programmed. Yet they were programmed by the Trenton Times." That newspaper printed several articles accusing the Friends of various indiscretions. The Friends say the instances were isolated and blown out of proportion.

Conservative Bent. Mr. Jurcsek noted that one of the Hodge Road residents opposed to their purchase of the house was J. Richardson Dilworth, an adviser to the Rockefeller Brothers. "I campaigned for Rockefeller 15 years ago," said Mr. Jurcsek.

In one sense the Friends function as a commune. They work together to operate an industrial security service called the Bond Agency and a limousine service. They live collectively in six large residences scattered around the state. They also study together, following a list of readings prepared by Mr. Jurcsek.

But their life-style, judging from the Morristown house, is conservative. Either four or five young women live in that large residence, in a style that seems similar tn what one might expect on Hodge Road. Mr. Jurcsek, and several men in the group, live in another house several miles away. "It's much nicer than the one in Morristown," he said.

Supported Byrne. Their politics are even more conservative. The Friends are enthusiastic about the candidacy of Jeffrey Bell for the U.S. Senate. They speak highly of Jack Kemp, the former football player who is now the conservative Republican congressman from Upstate New York. They follow the economic writings of former Treasury Secretary William Simon.

One of the few Democrats they find appealing is Brendan

Byrne. The Friends supported him in last year's gubernatorial election and worked as volunteers in his campaign. "I like humble people who are realistic," said Mr. Jurcsek. "I also like the underdog."

Considering the controversial nature of the Friends in Princeton, the governor probably would not be as effusive in praising his volunteers. His press secretary, Kathy Forsyth, said that Byrne campaign officials and the governor himself had no idea anyone from the Friends was working on his behalf.

When the governor approved the sale of the house to the Desiderios, he "had no knowledge of who they were," according to his press secretary. "The law stated that the house should go to the highest bidder. That was all."

Why Princeton? One reason the Friends hoped to purchase a house in Princeton, they said, was to be close to the University. Mrs. Desiderio said most of the Friends had first heard of Mr. Jurcsek and his teachings when they were in college, and they thought Princeton students might also be receptive to their philosophy. "Firestone Library would have been great for our studies," she added.

Miss Reinauer, speaking somewhat facetiously, added another reason for moving to Princeton that would be appreciated by many in her age group: "We would have been closer to the Hudibras," she said, referring to the popular Nassau Street establishment.

The Way To Go

For golfers planning
A mid-day start
Old pros advise,
"Take a cart!"

July in New Jersey can mean a high volume of heat and humidity, and while devotees of the sport claim that "it never rains on the golf course," they do admit to high temperatures pervading their playland

Actually, the Man says, his forecast for the coming month looks for the teperature to average somewhat below normal for this part of the world If there's one month in the year when such a prediction is welcome, it's July, with its traditional ability to provide a number of days in the 90s, and humidity not far behind

For the immediate future, the much-needed rain early in the week will be replaced by clear skies by Wednesday, with the possibility that they will last right into the weekend In contrast to June, however, when precipitation was barely more than half the average amount of just over three inches, July is expected to be wetter then usual

FOUND IN CAR TRUNK

Woman Apparent Suicide. A writer and editor, April Hubinger, 26, of Greenview Avenue, was an apparent suicide, Borough police reported, after they found her body Thursday morning inside the trunk of her small, yellow foreign car.

The trunk had been tied down from inside and a vacuum cleaner hose extended from the exhaust pipe into the truck. The motor of the car was still running when Pfl. David Alston opened the trunk of the car at 8:35. It was parked in a lot behind the Coin Wash, 259 Nassau Street, with its trunk backed up against a small row of trees.

A note attached to the outside said that the keys had been locked inside and the owner was going to get another set. David Kass, owner of the Coin Wash, had called police at 7:57, reporting the car with its motor running.

An autopsy at St. Francis Medical Center in Trenton, ordered by Dr. Mathew R. Lapin, the Mercer County Medical Examiner, confirmed that death was caused by the inhalation of gas fumes.

A friend of the victim told police that she had gotten up in the middle of the night and left the house. She had been working in Princeton, according to a relative.

Police report they do not know why Ms. Hubinger may have committed suicide. No notes were left, they said.

She was a daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Hubinger of Huntington, Long Island, and the late Charles Hubinger, an insurance executive.

TV, CAMERA STOLEN

By Sneak Thief. A Moore Street resident left his house at 1:30 Saturday night and when he returned at 2:05 in the morning, he discovered that his portable color television set was missing from the kitchen table.

On Friday, a Spruce Street resident called police to report that his $250 35mm camera had been taken from his apartment bedroom on the first floor.

"We've got a sneak thief in that area and we've got to catch him," commented Capt. Theodore Lewis. He reported the apartment had been entered through a window.

An employee of Echo Books, 32 Witherspoon Street, told police Saturday that a blue First National Bank money bag was missing from a rear office. It contained $183.50.

Two fibreglas fishing poles and salt water reels with a value of $100 were stolen Saturday from a rowboat mounted on a trailer parked on Gordon Way. The victim told police that he had seen two juveniles walk away from the boat.

A secretary at Biomedia, 2 Chambers Street, listed the theft of her wallet next to her desk which was taken from an unlocked office between 2 and 5 Friday afternoon. She lost $5-$6, personal papers and credit cards.

A College Road resident reported the theft of a five-speed, $75 bicycle from in front of his home last week, and a Spruce Street resident said that three director chairs had been taken earlier in the month from inside the house. They were valued at $100.

FILMING DONE HERE

On University Campus. The deluxe camping trailers and the large rental trucks parked all day on Nassau Street last week were part and parcel of the paraphernalia that goes along with shooting a movie on location.

Inside the ivied walls of Holder Hall and East Pyne on the Princeton University campus, scenes for "The Last Embrace," a United Artists' thriller directed by Jonathan Deeme, were being filmed. Roy Scheider, star of "Jaws," "Jaws 2" and "The French Connection," and Janet Margolin of "David and Lisa" fame, spent from Tuesday through Friday in various campus locations, which also included the Graduate College tower; the office of Prof. Karl D. Uitti, chairman of the Romance Languages and Literatures, in East Pyne; outside Alexander Hall and Firestone Library.

ON LOCATION IN PRINCETON: Roy Scheider, star of "Jaws," "Jaws 2" and "The French Connection," takes a break with Janet Margolin, his co-star in "The Last Embrace" which was filmed in part on Princeton campus last week. (John Simpson photo)

A number of undergraduates and several staff members from various offices on the campus were used as extras in the film, which is described as an Alfred Hitchcock-type thriller. Roy Scheider plays a member of a New York-based organization who comes to Princeton to verify various aspects of his research into an ancient Jewish cult. The suspense lies in his belief that his life may be in danger.

One of the scenes calls for a setting in a sanitorium, for which Drumthwacket was considered but which actually used Palmer House, the home of the late Mrs. Edgar Palmer on the corner of Nassau Street and Bayard Lane, now owned by the University. One Princeton reisdent who will be heard but not seen in the finished movie is Walter Nollner, professor of music, who was asked to play the carillon in the Graduate College tower while shooting was taking place at that location.

The fact that Princeton was chosen for these on-location campus scenes is thought to be part of a stepped-up campaign on the part of the New Jersey Motion Picture and Television Development Commission to attract the film industry.

Two other films are currently in production in the state. Sophia Loren is finishing "Firepower" in Clinton and Westwood this week under Michael Winner's direction, while Larry Peerce is making "The Bell Jar" at Rutgers, based on the best-selling remembrances by Sylvia Plath and starring Marilyn Hassett.

COSTLY ADJUSTMENT

Engine Catches Fire. When a John Street resident attempted to adjust his car's carburetor Thursday, it burst into flame and the resultant fire burned out the engine compartment. Police, aided by members of Hook & Ladder, put out the blaze.

In another car fire, a small station wagon parked at 24 Chestnut Street, was extensively damaged when a fire started in the engine area and quickly spread throughout the car.

Cause of the 5 p.m. Sunday fire has not been determined. It was extinguished by firemen.

Recreation Board Joins Those Who Are Opposed To Proposed Medical Building on Bayard Lane

In a unanimous resolution last week, the Princeton Recreation Board voiced its opposition–along with neighbors–to the proposed medical arts building at the foot of Bayard Lane.

Donald Barr, executive director of the Recreation Board, said the board was opposed not only to the construction of the two-story medical arts building but to "any other commercial building on that property. The board feels there's got to be other locations more suitable for that type of construction."

The board was concerned, Mr. Barr said about traffic and parking and the problem of water runoff if the proposed parking lot for 104 patients, 16 doctors and 29 staff members were built next to the recreation department's own 70-space lot which has already been installed. "That's a lot of asphalt; the water's got to run off somewhere."

The proposed lot is directly across from the recreation lot. "How are you going to monitor it?" asked Mr. Barr. "I can't have a man out there all day asking, 'Are you going to the medical center or to the park?'"

Important as its concerns are, the board is opposed even more for aesthetic reasons.

The Recreation Department is in the process of completing Phase 1 of the development of Community Park on the north side of Route 206. Included in this initial phase are walks, picnic area and tables, lake and amphitheater.

To preserve the country-like atmosphere of the area, a dyke or berm has been built to try to block out Route 206. The berm ends near the point where the proposed construction would be, Mr. Barr stated.

"From an aesthetic point of view, it is not compatible with the area."

Nearing Completion. As for the work on the north side of 206, it will be complete in a few more months, Mr. Barr said, to the point where residents can use and enjoy it as a picnic area. The actual completion of all of Phase 1, together with the amphitheater, will probably not be accomplished until 1979, he said.

A lake with a small island has been constructed in the picnic area, and Mr. Barr reported that two pieces of sculpture by Seward Johnson of a fisherman and a boy will be unveiled during opening day ceremonies.

BRIDGE STUDY BEGINS

Can It Be Saved? Township Committee, which has been hoping to find some way to save the crumbling Mercer Road Bridge over Stony Brook, may get some firm information about costs and options this week. The New York City consulting firm of Weidlinger and Associates, which was retained last week by the Township to study the bridge, already has inspected it and is expected to report its findings this week.

The bridge, built in 1809, was closed May 30 by county engineers, who deemed it unsafe. The closing of the bridge has caused detours for many residents and commuters who normally traverse the Princeton Pike and Mercer Road.

The preliminary work from the consulting firm was optimistic, according to Township Mayor Josie Hall: The condition of the bridge may not be as bad as everyone had assumed.

In other good news for the committee, the county has agreed to accept the findings of the Township consultant, if it is the only one to study the bridge. The county originally promised to pay for two consultants, one of its own choosing and one selected by the Township. Since then it has retreated somewhat from that position, and indicated it may not want to pay for two separate studies.

The first question being considered by the Township consultant is whether or not the stone bridge can be saved and restored to full operation. If not, the question would be whether or not the bridge can be used temporarily for several years while the Township raises Federal funds to help construct a new one.

Meeting This Wednesday. If the bridge cannot be repaired at all for use by motor vehicles, then the consultant has been asked to consider its usefulness for bicycle and pedestrian traffic. The costs of each alternative also must be weighed.

Township Administrator Joseph Nini said that, so far as he knew, the county was still planning to engage its own consultant in a study. "We've asked our consultant to prepare a report as soon as possible," Mr. Nini added.

Discussion of the bridge is on the agenda for this Wednesday's Township Committee meeting, at 8 o'clock in Township Hall.

LIFESAVING OFFERED

Starts Thursday. An advanced lifesaving course will be offered at Community Park Pool, starting Thursday. It will be taught Tuesday and Thursday mornings between 10 and 11 a.m. by Jayne Levy and Jennifer Walsh.

Candidates must be 15 years of age; able to perform front dive; 500 yards of continuous swim (using crawl, sidestroke, backstroke); tread water for one minute; swim 20 feet under water; dive from surface to a minimum depth of 8 feet. The Recreation Department will also offer an adult swim class Saturday mornings between 9 and 10:30. It begins July 8 and will run for eight weeks.

All adult Princeton residents and season permit holders are invited to participate. To register, call the Recreation Office at 921-9480 before Thursday.

WHERE IS THIS? An idyllic summer setting not far from the center of Princeton that few Princetonians have ever seen. It's part of the development of Community Park North, it's barely 60 yards from busy Route 206 and it's been there so long that last winter a red flag signifying that it was unsafe for skating flew above the high bank that hides it from the highway's view.

HIT-AND-RUN CHARGED

With Drunk Driving. Fifty-five year-old Russell Klein of Hillsborough has been charged by Township police with drunken driving.

Later released on $50 bail pending his court appearance, Mr. Klein was stopped on Route 206 by Township Ptl. Mario Musso on an alert by the Borough police who wanted him for leaving the scene of an accident on Stockton Street near Bayard Lane.

After Mr. Klein was stopped near Township Hall at 8:15 Friday evening, Ptl. Musso reported that he detected an odor of alcohol. Mr. Klein was placed under arrest and taken to police headquarters.

DRIVER FALLS ASLEEP

Car Overturns. "I was tired, working day and night, and just fell asleep," said Timothy J. Cochran, 22, of 758 Puritan Avenue, Lawrenceville, after his car hit the curb twice on Stockton Street early Friday morning and overturned.

Although his 1969 sedan was totalled, Mr. Cochran escaped injury. He was charged by Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt with careless driving.

Police said that his car hit the curb 18 feet past the intersection of Campbelton Road around 1 a.m., crossed over the roadway and struck the opposite curb and overturned in the middle of Stockton. It traveled 173 feet from the initial point of impact to its final resting place.

REQUEST BACKED

For More Hospital Rooms. Representative Millicent Fenwick said this week that she hoped the Princeton Medical Center's Certificate of Need would be approved when the application is reconsidered on August 25 by the State Planning & Coordinating Council. New Jersey Health Commissioner Finley has agreed to reconsider Princeton's request if the hospital is willing to wait two months for the decision.

"I am glad to see that Princeton's application will receive another hearing, but I am concerned what the delay will mean in terms of added construction costs," Mrs. Fenwick said. "I understand that estimates place the additional costs at $10,000 a month, so it is imperative that the Certificate of Need be approved as soon after the August 25 meeting as possible."

Mrs. Fenwick had written to both Governor Byrne and Commissioner Finley on June 14 to urge reconsideration of the State Planning & Coordinating Council's denial of Princeton's request. Mrs. Fenwick noted that Federal guidelines for granting Certificates of Need included recognition of special circumstances and requirements.

Among the circumstances cited were the 99+ percent occupancy rate, the 13 percent population growth in Princeton's service area over the last ten years, the 1500 elective cases that have been rescheduled two to five times last year, and the twelve patient beds that are inappropriately placed in the solarium. Mrs. Fenwick asked the Governor and Commissioner Finley to "look into this situation to see if it is possible to have the Certificate of Need approved. The 30 beds are urgently needed and the shortage is of great concern to the residents of the whole Princeton area."

TWO WOMEN CHARGED

In Clothing Theft. Two Trenton residents have been charged by police after they allegedly combined to shoplift $604 in women's clothing last week from Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Cennise Ford, 20, was charged by Lt. Anthony Pinelli with larceny. She was sent to Mercer County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bail. Charged with aiding and abetting, and later released, was Ruth A. Danal, 31.

Police said the pair was apprehended after being observed by Bamberger security officer Constance Johnson. They had the clothing in their possession when arrested, police said.

AUCTION PLANNED

To Benefit Inn Restoration. An auction for historic preservation will take place on Saturday from 10 until noon at Lawrence Township's Municipal Building with Lester Slatoff as auctioneer. The proceeds will be placed in the preservation fund of the Lawrence Historical Society and will be used to begin restoration of the Princessville Inn.

The Princessville Inn, formerly called the Red Tavern, was built in the very early 1800's on the Princeton Pike and accommodated drovers who drove their livestock from their farms to the Pennsylvania and New York markets. For a time it was the only voting place in the township and a meeting place for social and political events. It featured an assembly room, a ball room, as well as eating and sleeping facilities.

The Greens, the Mershons, the Piersons and the Vanderbilts were the old Lawrence families connected with the inn. Now that it is owned by the citizens of Lawrence Township, the Lawrence Historical Society is eager to preserve the inn and use it as a meeting place for many of the organizations in the township.

Upon completion of restoration, the names of donors will be inscribed in a permanent record at the inn.

The Lawrence Historical Society is a non-profit organization to which contributions are tax deductible. Pledges for future payment are acceptable. For those unable to attend the auction, checks may be made payable to the Lawrence Historical Society, Box 6025, Lawrenceville.

Princeton Pops Concert Pleasing To The Eye, Ear and Stomach

In just two years the Princeton Pops Concert has established itself as one of the most enjoyable occasions on the town's calendar of events.

Sunday's generally grey skies with at least a 50 percent chance of showers forecast for late in the day did not deter several thousand from attending the evening's festivities. Early arrivals began lining up at the gates in advance of the 5:30 opening.

By 6 p.m. innumerable picnics were in full swing, ranging from a simple sandwich and a cold beer to more elaborate settings, which included fresh vegetable hors d'-oeuvres with an herb dip, cold tomato bisque soup, slices of marinated London Broil, homemade potato salad, zucchini bread, and brownies, washed down with "peach smash" cocktails and red wine.

A faulty generator briefly delayed the start of the concert by the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, which was using the occasion to dedicate its new Mobile Sound Stage. The gift of the Robert Wood Johnson Jr. Charitable Trust, it is the second largest theatrical unit of its kind in the country.

Under the direction of its newly-appointed director Thomas Michalak, the orchestra performed superbly in its new home on wheels, mixing the works of Beethoven, Gounod and Dvorak with Gershwin's "An American in Paris" and selections from "My Fair Lady." Singing pieces from Puccini's La Boheme and Kalman's Countess Maritza, soprano Mary Costa provided a pleasant change of pace.

Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 4 closed out the regular program, but the best was yet to come. As the orchestra broke into "The Stars and Stripes Forever," the first fireworks shot skyward and for the next 15 minutes the audience clapped in time to a series of stirring Sousa marches and oohed and aahed over a spectacular fireworks display, a much improved finale over last year. The end brought a well deserved standing ovation.

'HILL' PROJECT OK'D

By Township Zoning. After several months of debate and several alterations in plans, the proposed housing development at Constitution Hill moved one step ahead last week. The Township Zoning Board approved a five-page resolution which granted the developer all necessary variances for the project.

The vote was 5-1, with Jerome Rose dissenting on "legalistic grounds." William O'Shaughnessy disqualified himself from the case. The developers now must prepare a detailed site plan, which also will be subject to the Zoning Board's review and approval. Preparation of the plan is expected to take several months.

"I think everyone is pleased by the outcome," said Thomas C. Jamieson, attorney for the development corporation. "We're looking forward to moving ahead."

The original proposal from the Collins Development Corporation, based in Greenwich, Conn., had sparked opposition among 18 neighbors in the Constitution Hill vicinity. It had called for construction of 70 dwelling units, including 26 rental units, or "flats," as they were called.

The "flats" were considered particularly objectionable and they were eliminated in the proposal that was approved by the board.

As the project is now planned, it would contain 60 units, all condominiums, or owner occupied. The plans call for 21 double units, or semi-attached houses, 10 single family units, and eight units created by the conversion of the mansion now on the property.

The new units will have either one, two or three bedrooms. A majority will be two bedrooms.

STICKY FINGERS

Juvenile Thieves Caught. Juveniles were caught stealing in separate incidents in the Township last week.

Lt. Anthony Pinelli, the juvenile officer, reported that a 15-year old Trenton youth was charged with shoplifting $117 in clothing from Bamberger's.

He broke away from custody, entered a private home and was located later by police hiding in the brush on Birch Avenue. While investigating this incident, Lt. Norman Servis apprehended two 15-year old Trenton girls in Bamberger's, who allegedly shoplifted clothing valued at $56. All three were released to parents, pending further action by juvenile authorities.

Three Township teenagers, two 12 and one 14, were apprehended Thursday and charged with taking $33 from a wallet in a pair of trousers at Community Park pool.

In addition, Lt. Pinelli reported that one of the youths had stolen two watches several days earlier. He said that a swimmer, who had noticed the youths acting suspiciously at the time of the watch theft, observed them acting in a suspicious manner again on Thursday.

She alerted the pool manager and they allegedly saw the youths take the wallet from the trousers. The suspects were located and apprehended a few hours later. The swimmer identified one of them as the one who removed the wallet and the money, police said.

Two Pack 6-Pack. Two Township youths, 16 and 17, were stopped and charged with possession of alcoholic beverages, after they were seen Friday night riding their bicycles on Linden Lane near Franklin by Ptl. Gerald Patterson in possession of two 6-packs of beer.

After processing, each was released to a guardian.

SWIM WEEK SET

As Salute to United Way. The YMCA will hold a special learn-to-swim week for youngsters from August 7 to 11. The week is planned as a salute to the United Way for its support of the YMCA, and lessons will be free.

There will be three class time choices, 9:30 to 10:30, 1:15 to 2:15 and 3:45 to 4:30. The lessons are available for children ages 6 to 13, and there is space for 100 youngsters.

Registration is taking place now at the YMCA, Paul Robeson Place. For further information call 924-4825.

AUTO SHOW IN AUGUST

In New Hope. Rolls Royces, Model Ts, Ferraris, and Duesenbergs are among the cars that will be seen at the 21st annual New Hope Automobile Show, in New Hope on August 12 and 13.

Last year, more than 1,800 cars were on display, and competed for trophies in "Americas Most Complete Automobile Show". Entries are expected from across the United States and Canada, with some 50,000 automotive enthusiasts expected to attend. In addition to the automobiles, other attractions are an Automotive Flea Market and a Country Fair. Contact the New Hope Automobile Show office for additional information or entry form by writing to P.O. Box 62, New Hope, Pennsylvania 18938.

ALMOST 50 YEARS OF SERVING THE PUBLIC THROUGHOUT NEW JERSEY, NEW YORK AND PENNSYLVANIA.

IN THE STYLE OF JULES VERNE: The mass driver model being developed at Princeton looks nothing like the one in the NASA painting. But the principle behind the device is being proved workable by Professor Gerard O'Neill and his researchers. Essentially a linear electric motor, the mass driver uses small buckets to accelerate liquid or solid payloads to high velocity. The buckets are returned for re-use. A mass driver such as the one depicted here, several thousand yards in length and powered by solar energy, could raise material from low earth orbits—attainable by the space shuttle—to much higher orbits.

SPACE PLAN BOOSTED

By Williams Amendment. Just four years ago the space colonization plan of Princeton University Professor Gerard K. O'Neill was unknown to most people and belittled as impractical by many who did know about it. Professor O'Neill hosted a small conference that year at Princeton which was financed with serveral hundred dollars.

Last week the U.S. Senate authorized $500,000 to study Dr. O'Neill's proposal and weigh the costs and benefits of one aspect of it--the construction of large solar power space stations that would beam a steady stream of energy back to earth. New Jersey Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr. sponsored the amendment to the National Science Foundation authorization bill. It is expected to win approval in a House-Senate conference and before the Appropriations Committee.

Professor O'Neill, who will be lecturing this summer at the University of California at San Diego, was described by his Princeton staff as being 'very pleased' by the developments in Washington.

Progress also is being reported in Princeton, where researchers under Professor

Gerard K. O'Neill

O'Neill's direction have been constructing a working model of a lunar mass driver, a device that would allow workers in space to propel raw materials from the moon to space manufacturing sites orbiting around the earth.

One working model already has been successfully tested. The one currently being built will be about a half mile long. It could be completed by the end of the summer and could be tested at that time on the Princeton Forrestal Campus. The researchers are hoping the second model can produce a force of about 100 times that of gravity.

'The High Frontier.' The solar power space stations and the mass driver all are integral parts of Dr. O'Neill's concept of colonizing space, which he calls "the high frontier."

Earth, he contends, may not be the most suitable environment for many of man's activities. Space, with its zero gravity and virtually unlimited source of solar energy, might be more appropriate for certain manufacturing processes and energy generation. He foresees the possibility of large numbers of people living and working in huge artificial environments with most earthly amenities and even some blessings--such as controlled weather--not found on earth.

The solar power stations would help pay for such development. Dr. O'Neill points out that while the cost of building these stations might be as much as $50 to $60 billion, they could produce as much as $20 billion worth of electricity in their first year of operation.

Economies could be achieved by using the space shuttle program, currently under development by NASA, to lift the necessary equipment for space colonization into orbit. Most important, raw materials would not have to be hauled up from earth--a costly process. Rather, they could be mined from the moon and asteroids, and then hurled to the manufacturing site by the mass driver.

No Cloudy Days. The solar power stations would function much as those on earth do, except that the conversion of sunshine into electricity would be continuous--no cloudy days and no nights, either, if the station is positioned properly.

The electricity could be beamed back to earth. Professor O'Neill believes, by microwaves. That part of the proposal worries some people, who question the safety of microwaves. Professor O'Neill and others contend that these can be made totally safe.

The amendment specifies that scientists should use the money to study the environmental, as well as economic and scientific aspects of the proposal.

Dr. O'Neill has taped an appearance on the Merv Griffin Show, which is expected to be aired on Channel 5 in New York on July 18.

'BLACK HOLE' FOUND

By Research Team. A team of British and American astrophysicists has reported the discovery of what is believed to be a "black hole" in orbit around a supergiant star in the constellation Scorpius. The discovery was made by NASA's Orbiting Astronomical Observatory, "Copernicus," a joint research venture of Princeton University and University College, London.

A black hole results when a massive star exhausts its nuclear fuel and collapses on itself, becoming so dense that its extreme gravity prevents any light from escaping. A black hole is by definition invisible, although its existence can be discerned indirectly.

The newly discovered black hole is paired with a visible supergiant star. Together they form a binary or double-star system. The supergiant star was known to be part of a binary system with an unseen companion from work done in the early 1970s by Norman Walker of the Royal Greenwich Observatory.

The detection of X-rays emanating from the companion star has led to its identification as a probable black hole. The X-rays were discovered by an instrument on Copernicus developed at the Mullard Space Science Laboratory, University College, London.

No Other Possibility. "The mass of this collapsed object, deduced from the properties of the double star, is so large that it can only be a black hole," said Ronald Polidan of the Princeton University Observatory and one of the five astrophysicists on the scientific team.

The double star is at a distance of 5,000 light years in the direction of the center of our galaxy and is known to be associated with a cluster of stars. The discovery was made by observing the times when the X-ray source passed behind the supergiant star. Two such X-ray eclipses have been observed at times predicted from analysis of the double star orbit.

Coincident observations with the Princeton University ultraviolet telescope on Copernicus show that the supergiant star is ejecting large amounts of mass with velocities up to 2 million miles per hour. Most of this material is spiraling into the black hole, producing the large amount of X-ray emission observed.

The first black hole candidate in our galaxy was discovered several years ago in the constellation Cygnus (The Swan). Known as the Cygnus X-1 source, it is regarded with skepticism by some astronomers. The discovery of a second black hole in our galaxy is therefore highly significant, according to Polidan, particularly as the mass of the unseen companion is more highly constrained than Cygnus X-1.

The 4,900-pound Copernicus satellite, developed by Princeton and built by the Grumman Aerospace Corporation, has been in orbit since August 21, 1972, and has outlived its expected one-year operational lifespan by nearly five years. The University College, London, X-ray instrument was constructed and is operated with financial support from the Science Research Council, a funding agency of the British government.

15TH BOUTIQUE PLANNED
As Medical Center Benefit. The Princeton Medical Center will benefit from the 15th annual Christmas Boutique to be held November 7, 8 and 9 at the Nassau Inn. Each year since it began in 1963, the event has raised increasingly large amounts of money for the Medical Center. This year's proceeds are pledged to the hospital's Building Fund.

Co-chairmen Mrs. Charles P. Dennison and Mrs. Phillips B. Van Dusen report that a number of popular attractions will be returning to Princeton this fall. Among them are La Bouttica, the Greenwich, Conn., women's apparel shop; and La Cocina, a Wilmington, Del., shop offering cookware, utensils, serving pieces and cooking equipment.

The Silent Auction will again be a highlight of the Boutique and this fall will have a selection of objects for the sportsman-collector, such as old fishing equipment, decoys and sporting prints. Holiday Gourmet will offer an array of appetizers, entrees, soups and desserts.

Among the stores new this year will be Court Jester of Morristown, catering to tennis and paddle tennis enthusiasts. It will offer an assortment of gift items and clothing including appliqued paddle vests. Also new on the scene will be Museum Pieces, the specialty of designer Jenny Bell White, who transforms heirloom fabrics (hers or yours) into wearable garments.

Serving on the committees are Mrs. Peter C. Budd and Mrs. Lee C. Cleveland, decorations; Mrs. John G. Pontius, exhibitors party; Mrs. David Frothingham, Mrs. Roy F. Coppedge, Jr., and Mrs. Irving Kingsford, hospitality; Mrs. Robert Plumb and Mrs. Alexander K. Buck, hostesses; Mrs. Frank Brainerd, Mrs. Roland Hoguet, Mrs. Roger Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Forewood C. Wiser, invitations; Mrs. Arthur F. Hopper, Mrs. Donald V. Reed, Jr., models;

Also, Mrs. Andre Yokana and Mrs. M.F. Healy, patrons; Mrs. Pieter Fisher and Mrs. George A. Vaughn, photography; Mrs. Kaare Karstad, posters; Mrs. John Murray, program; Mrs. G. Ernest Dale and Mrs. Warren H. Anderson, publicity; Mrs. Richard Flournoy, secretary; Mrs. Wayne R. Carney and Mrs. Richard de J. Osborne, shop committee; Mrs. William Adamson, Jr. and Mrs. Mark Munn, security and housekeeping; Mrs. Jay Chandler and Mrs. Douglas Corlette, staging; Mrs. James Blair and Mrs. John Dumont, treasurers; Mrs. Charles Jaffin and Mrs. Bradford Mills, silent auction;

Also, Mrs. Hugo Hoogenboom and Mrs. Vagn Worm, holiday gourmet; Mrs. H.B. Elmes, Mrs. Jeremiah Ford, Mrs. Richard J. Henkel, and Mrs. John White, raffle; Mrs. Edward Thomas and Mrs. Gough W. Thompson, sip and snack; Mrs. D. F. Wahlers and Mrs. Richard Lacher, cranbury relish.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES: is the beneficiary of the annual Christmas Boutique which will be held from November 7 to 9 at the Nassau Inn. Co-chairmen of the event, now in its 15th year, are Mrs. Phillips B. Van Dusen and Mrs. Charles P. Dennison who are beside a croupette, a device to aid respiration, in the pediatric ward. This is the type of hospital equipment that has been purchased with funds raised by the Boutique. The patient is 16-month-old Michael Wurst of Hamilton Square (Margaret M. Fisher, photo)

$5 MILLION TOPPED
For Second Year. Princeton University's Annual Giving program, a fund-raising effort among alumni, parents and friends of the school, exceeded $5 million for the second consecutive year. The 1977-78 campaign which ended on June 30, produced a record breaking $5,392,314, surpassing last year's total by $388,000.

The 25th reunion class of 1953 led all classes with $1,019,530 becoming the first class in Princeton's history to raise more than $1 million in a single campaign. Other large contributors were the 50th reunion class of 1928 with $361,288; and the 40th reunion class of 1938 with $348,701.

In addition to the Class of 1953, major reunion records were achieved by the Classes of 1913, 1918, 1858, 1963, and 1973.

Records were also established by the parents of Princeton students, past and present; by alumni of the Graduate School; and by gifts made in memory of deceased Princetonians. The Chairman of Annual Giving for the second consecutive year is Charles T. Bellingrath, a member of the Class of 1956 who is an architect living in West Hartford, Conn.

RIFLE IS STOLEN
From Headmaster's Home. A .22 caliber bold action rifle was reported stolen last week from Pretty Brook Farm, the home of Princeton Day School's Headmaster Douglas O. McClure off The Great Road.

Entry was gained by breaking a pane of glass in a rear door, reaching in and unlocking the door. Police reported that the intruder had also cooked four eggs left in the refrigerator before leaving. The house had been unoccupied for a week. Ptl. William Potts investigated.

In another theft reported by Township police, Alexander Robinson of Route 518, Skillman, had his car looted while attending the Pop concert Sunday evening on the university campus.

Taken from his unlocked car parked on Western Way were two stereo speakers valued at $175. Also missing were the car's rear view mirror, gas cap and gear shift knob.

TRAIN STOP ADDED
At Princeton Junction. Amtrak has added a stop at Princeton Junction on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Train 202, which leaves Philadelphia at 8 a.m. daily and arrives in New York at 9:35, will add an 8:49 stop at the Junction on weekends and holidays.

Train 237 will revert to its original weekday morning schedule, leaving New York City at 6:35 a.m. instead of 6:45 a.m. It will now stop in New Brunswick at 7:15, Princeton Junction at 7:31, Trenton at 7:41 a.m. and arrive at 30th Street Station, Philadelphia, at 8:25 a.m.

ECOLOGY COURSE SET
By Watersheds Association. The Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association will hold week long ecology courses for youngsters on its 485 acre reserve in Hopewell Township. The program will include environmental studies, camping, a rope course, team challenges and other techniques with which to discover the outdoors.

The week of July 24-28 is set aside for 5th and 6th graders, the following week, July 31-August 4, for 7th and 8th graders. The program will run from 9 to 3 and will involve an overnight camping experience. Marla Fox, a specially trained outdoor educator, will lead the program.

The Association is a non-profit organization that maintains a professional staff to work with individuals, citizen groups and government units at all levels. It holds year-round environmental education programs for children and adults.

WELCOME ABOARD, SON: Ptl. Walter V. Emann, a 22-year veteran of the Township police force, welcomes his 20-year old son, Mark, as the newest member of the department. He held the Bible as his son was sworn in at ceremonies last week in Township Hall.

NEW POLICE RECRUITS AND "THE BOSS": Flanking Chief Frederick Porter are two new probationary patrol officers who began their careers with the Township police force on Saturday. At left is Virgil M. Angelini of Trenton and at right is Mark V. Emann of Province Line Road. Both were unanimous selections of the Township Police Committee from among 104 applicants.

REBATES SMALLER

Following Dip in Property Tax. Homeowners in most Mercer County municipalities will get a few dollars less from the state in property tax rebates this year than they did in 1977. According to the state Division of Taxation, the reduction reflects a slight overall dip in property taxes in New Jersey last year.

When the checks are mailed out on July 15, most Township homeowners will receive about $186 and those in the Borough, $182. For Township residents this is about $4 less than they received in two installments made in April and October last year. For Borough residents, it is $2 less than last year's total.

Homeowners who are senior citizens, or are disabled or the surviving spouse of a senior citizen or disabled person will get an extra $50 tacked onto the rebate. However, no rebate can total more than half of the homeowner's actual tax bill. The rebates are somewhat smaller for those who own houses worth less than $15,000 under the state's standards for computing true or market value.

The reason for the slightly smaller rebates in many towns is an $83 million statewide dip in property taxes during 1977, according to John Baldwin, assistant director of the state Division of Taxation. The rebates are geared to tax rates with the aim of reducing the property tax burden. The merging of the two rebate checks has not only cut processing costs but gave the state $130 million to help balance its books this fiscal year, ending June 30, by postponing the April installment into the new fiscal year.

The typical rebates are about the same as last year in West Windsor; about a dollar less than last year in Lawrence and Pennington; and about $2 less in Hopewell Borough and Township. Plainsboro residents can expect a check for about $171, while the standard rebate in South Brunswick will be about $188; in Franklin Township, $184; Hillsborough, $183; Montgomery, $181; Rocky Hill, $185; and Millstone, $182.

Mercer County residents are eligible for the standard rebate amount if they own a home with an assessed valuation of at least $10,937 in Princeton Township, $7,605 in Princeton Borough, $8,081 in West Windsor, $10,382 in Hopewell Township, $10,172 in Pennington and $12,273 in Lawrence. Those assessments are equivalent, by the state's calculations, to a house with a $15,000 market value. If the assessment is less, the rebate is less, under a complex formula.

CLAMBAKE PLANNED

In Montgomery. The 29th annual Summer Clambake, benefitting Montgomery Township Volunteer Fire Company No. 2, will be held on Saturday from noon to 5 at the Johnson Moore Grove on Spring Hill Road in Blawenburg.

Tickets for this all-you-can-eat affair are $8.75 per person, $4.25 for youngsters under 12, and are available through Towne Wine & Liquor, the May Agency, Verbeyst Cleaners, Seitz Brothers Garage in Blawenburg, and at the door.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 20 cents.

DR. BROWN RESIGNS

As Edison College President. Dr. James D. Brown, Jr., will resign on June 30 as president of Thomas A. Edison College, New Jersey's State College for external degree programs, it has been announced by Richard Pearson, chairman of the college's board of trustees.

In making the announcement, Mr. Pearson stated that Dr. Brown is leaving the presidency, which he has held since the College's founding in 1972, to pursue scholarly research and writing in the area of non-traditional study.

"We have a deep appreciation," Mr. Pearson said, "for his fine leadership in bringing the College into being, fostering its growth and developing it to the status of a fully accredited state institution."

During the past six years Edison College has enrolled approximately 7500 students and has awarded more than 1200 degrees. This year the College will enroll an additional 2400 students and grant close to 400 bachelors and associate degrees. Originally based in Trenton, it is now located in the Forrestal Center on the Princeton University campus on Route 1.

Edison College, which is part of the state college system, offers no instruction but is authorized by the New Jersey Board of Higher Education to award credits and degrees for demonstrated college-level learning, without regard to how that learning was acquired. The college is fully accredited by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools, making it the only completely non-instructional college in the nation to be so sanctioned. Degree requirements are met by transferring credits from other colleges, passing college-equivalency examinations and-or undergoing individual assessment of experiential knowledge.

Laszlo Ispanky

In a ceremony held in Akumal, Mexico, Sculptor Laszlo Ispanky of Hopewell was initiated into The Sovereign Order of St. John of Jerusalem, one of the oldest honorary organizations in the Western world.

More popularly known as the "Knights of Malta," the association was founded in the 11th century by crusader knights warring in the Holy Land. Today, the Order has evolved from the original military-medical brotherhood into an humanitarian fellowship. Membership is by invitation only, and is extended to men and women who have made significant contributions to the fields of art, science, international affairs, human relations and other forms of endeavor.

Mr. Ispanky began his career at the age of 15 as apprentice to a master sculptor in Hungary. After receiving a degree at the Budapest Academy of Fine Arts, he went on to make a name for himself as a sculptor in Europe. He emigrated to the United States in 1956 and ultimately established his own porcelain studio in Pennington.

In 1976, the Ispanky studio was acquired by Goebel, a manufacturer of collectors' items and objets d'art, including famous "M.I. Hummel" figurines, plates and bells.

Marketing Survey and Research Firm Ready To Build on Five-Acre Tract on Mt. Lucas Road

Four out of five working people are in the wrong job, say Herbert and Jeanne Greenberg, but the Greenbergs themselves are clearly and happily engaged in work they love.

Both are founders and officers of Marketing Survey and Research Corporation. Currently, the Greenbergs and their staff occupy offices on State Road, but they hope soon to break ground for their 14,000 square-foot corporate headquarters designed by J. Robert Hillier for a wooded retreat in the Princeton Research Lands section of Mt. Lucas Road.

Some neighbors aren't happy about Planning Board approval of the project and have taken a formal appeal to Township Committee and there is still a question about maintenance of a small pond and dam on the property.

But a $1.2 million loan has been received from the New Jersey Economic Development Authority for purchase of the five-plus acre site, and construction of the building, sa there is an air of cheer around the Greenbergs.

Going Under One Roof. Actually, Marketing Survey and Research is the holding company for two subsidiaries: Personality Dynamics, Inc., which makes personnel evaluations for industry, and Progressive Communications, Inc., which owns the Trenton radio station WTNJ, flagship station of the New Jersey Radio Network of 24 stations. The new Mt. Lucas Road building will bring all under the same roof.

Personnel evaluation is the keystone of the enterprise, Dr. Greenberg explains. (That's Herbert Greenberg--"my wife and I are both psychologists, but she's always been too busy professionally to pick up a doctorate," he laughs.)

The 8,000 or so clients in the Greenberg portfolio have names like the National Automobile Dealers Association--4,000 of these--the Real Estate National Marketing Institute, Independent Insurance Agents of America, Professional Insurance Agents of America, various divisions of General Electric, Equitable Life and even the Calgary Real Estate Board of Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

"...but the bulk of our work is with smaller companies," Dr. Greenberg says, "and we work, not on a contract basis, but per evaluation. One hiring decision a year, after all, could make or break a company."

A Goal Defined. Dr. Greenberg says he and his wife like to think they are dedicated to the elimination of the notorious Peter Principle: "promoting people to the level of their incompetence."

"A first-rate teacher who loves kids is rewarded by being promoted to an administrative job across town from the nearest classroom. A reporter who loves to write is rewarded by being made an editor. That's the kind of thing we mean."

If that list of client firms seems to lean toward selling, it's not by chance. Before Herb and Jeanne were married, they were asked, as psychologists, to do a consulting job for an insurance company. Look over the existing tests, they were told, and find out what ones should be used to reduce the extremely high rate of turnover the company had.

"We reviewed the literature," Dr. Greenberg recalls, "and found there was no test to determine sales success. We did four years of intensive work on this project, from 1957 to 1961. In '61, we developed, with a colleague, a battery of tests which predict, based on the personality dynamic, how well an individual can do. Chiefly in selling, this was, but it soon evolved into other aspects of business as well."

Matchmakers. "Any job that relates to systems or to people--not to clerical or machine skills. We've helped school systems choose superintendents. We've helped hospitals choose administrators."

The Greenbergs moved to Princeton in 1970, and three years later, bought station WTNJ ("1300 on your dial!"). Mrs. Greenberg is president of the station.

The network, which is only a year old, specializes in state news, with three newscasts daily--7:50 a.m., 11:50 a.m. and 4:50 p.m.

Telling It Live. The Greenbergs are proud of the live gubernatorial debates, live coverage of President Carter when he visited New Jersey, full and live coverage of Chief Justice Richard Hughes' state of the judiciary message.

"We hope for a series of Senatorial debates this fall," Dr. Greenberg says, "perhaps with telephoned questions from the audience. And special events...and we hope to add even more stations, although we cover the state right now."

"The network was one year old on May 23. Yes, we survived and we had enough advertising, but I'm glad we didn't have to live on it! I hope various New Jersey enterprises will support a New Jersey news station, and I think they will."

Dr. Greenberg also hopes he and his wife and the staff of around 60 professionals, administrators and clerical workers can be neighbors with Mt. Lucas residents.

"We told neighbors we'd like to bring our architect and sit down and talk over their problems with them, but they never took us up on this," Dr. Greenberg says.

Happy to Be Here. "The land we bought cost three times what we'd have paid in another township--$30,000 as opposed to $9,000--and our taxes will be higher in Princeton Township than in any other place.

"But we live here. We have a daughter in Johnson Park and a son in Princeton High School and frankly, we'd rather pay taxes to our own town."

Dr. Greenberg, Phi Beta Kappa, City College of New York, doctorate summa cum laude from New York University, was a partner in a securities firm for six years and taught psychology at Rutgers. His book, "The Successful Salesman: Man and His Manager" was a selection of the Executive and Fortune book clubs.

Mrs. Greenberg designed, developed and directed the placement of welfare recipients with the brokerage firm of Oppenheimer & Company in New York, helped to design a $7 million Federal program for the National Alliance of Businessmen, in which some 3,000 hard-core unemployed were placed and has conducted seminars on personnel and manpower topics. She is a former member of the Princeton Joint Commission on Aging.

CONFERENCE SET

By Education Brokers

Representatives from ten agencies in eight states will attend the National Center for Educational Brokering conference to be held in Pennington, July 10-11. Host for the conference will be the New Jersey Education Consortium of 228 Alexander Street, a non-profit educational organization.

The NCEB is funded by grants from the Fund for the Improvement of Post-secondary Education (HEW) and the Carnegie Corporation. Among its aims is the improvement of educational and counseling services to those whose needs are not adequately met through traditional channels. Through a brokering program, NCEB affiliates bring together those with needs and those with the resources to meet those needs. In the process, the potential learner gains an advocate to assist him or her in relating to the educational establishment.

In describing the conference agenda, Robert Steiner, Executive Director of the host agency, noted that participants will basically be sharing their experiences so that the NCEB can more effectively promote the concept of brokering and learner advocacy.

Millicent Fenwick Reports

PRIVILEGE ABUSED

Franking Has Been Overdone. This week, I will be sending out my July 4th report and it will be the last until the General Election is over in November. Perhaps it would be wise to explain why and to outline the existing regulations governing franking privileges.

In an effort to curb the advantage an incumbent has over a challenger for Congressional office, mailings of 500 or more are prohibited for 60 days before any election. The abuse of the franking privilege was so great that they even had to limit the number of photographs of the incumbent on each folder and the number of times the incumbent's name was mentioned!

These rules do not, in my opinion, go as far as they should. The district-wide mailings of approximately 150,000 each should be limited to off-election years or else the privilege should be extended on an equal unlimited basis to the challenger of a party which has received a specified proportion of the votes in the Primary. (I have sent one such mailing, in the form of a questionnaire, in each off-election year - 1975 and 1977.)

As for the reports sent to newspapers and individuals, I think the same principle should apply--a limitation in election years, with equal rights for a challenger. I have testified before the House committees studying these issues and have sponsored and supported all such legislation.

Unless we try to equalize incumbent advantages such as these, we will have demands for greater and greater expenditures in Congressional elections, in order to give a challenger a chance. And if we don't get the voluntary tax-check-off system of public financing, we will have to continue to fight the pernicious influence of special interest group contributions.

I have often felt, looking at some of the mailings that are sent out district-wide, that they resemble a campaign folder far more than a communication of information to the constituent. The incumbent photographed with a farmer, a hard-hat worker, an elderly citizen, a small child or a dam--these are the items that are shown, with a text boasting about the amount of money the incumbent was instrumental in bringing into the State or District--without any mention of the enormous nationwide costs that such bills incurred, with concurrent inflation of the deficit.

Incumbents rightly claim that every challenger has an advantage in that the incumbent's record is clear, and open to attack at any point. But, it is also true that every incumbent has an advantage, not only through the franking privilege, but also because a Member's name was apt to be well-known and the opportunities to serve constituents have been many.

Christ Church, Princeton Newest, To Ordain Its Minister on Sunday

Kenneth A. Smith of 206 Loetscher Place will be ordained Sunday at 7:30 as a Presbyterian minister in a ceremony in the University Chapel. His ordination also marks the beginning of Princeton's newest church, Christ Church of Princeton, of which he is the founding pastor.

Dr. D. James Kennedy, author of "Evangelism Explosion" and pastor of the Coral Ridge Presbyterian Church in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., will speak at the service. Mr. Smith will be ordained into the Presbyterian Church in America, the "southern" denomination as opposed to the Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A. to which Princeton's two Presbyterian churches belong.

Kenneth A. Smith

Mr. Smith was born in Yonkers, N.Y. He received his B.A. degree from The King's College in Briarcliff, N.Y., and his M.A. in family counseling from the University of Northern Colorado. After graduation he spent five years in the U.S. Air Force.

He was an officer and a pilot and worked in race relations and drug and alcohol abuse programs as well as family counseling. He then worked for a year as a family counsellor in a church in Lubbock, Tex. He is married to the former Carol Springer, an airline hostess with Pan Am, and they have two sons, ages 4 and 1.

Mr. Smith feels that there are a lot of people in Princeton who are "unchurched" and he would like to meet their spiritual needs "in a church that is based on Christ's Gospel, with Biblical nurturing and education."

Christ Church currently has a nucleus of about 27 people, he says, and meets Sunday evenings at 6:30 in the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center. There is a Bible study and prayer fellowship that meets on Wednesday nights. Mr. Smith would like to begin holding Sunday morning services in September and is looking for an appropriate location.

He says he submitted a proposal to the Nassau Presbyterian Church for the use of the Chambers Street Sanctuary, the former St. Andrew's Church, but he has not heard from the Session whether or not his proposal has been accepted.

ETS Study Shows Role of Teacher Enhanced—But Not Replaced—By Computer in Classroom

College teachers maintain essential roles in educating students even when computers are used in classroom instruction, studies by Educational Testing Service have found.

Two evaluations conducted by ETS at the community college level also demonstrated that while computer systems designed to teach students have not reached the stature often claimed for them, the potential remains for their continued development and application. Both evaluations were sponsored by the National Science Foundation.

One of the computer - assisted instruction systems examined, TICCIT (Time - Shared, Interactive, Computer - Controlled Information Television), was devised to provide a complete and independent alternative to entire college courses in selected subjects, allowing students to exercise control over the pace and sequence of their lessons.

The PLATO (Programmed Logic for Automatic Teaching Operations) system was created to fit into a regular teacher - managed study program and supplement college course work. In the demonstration of PLATO evaluated, the system accounted for less than one - third of total class instruction.

A Positive Impact. Teachers carried out important functions in the implementation of both systems, helping to prepare computerized course work and assisting students to learn on the computer. Their influences were detected in other facets of the studies as well.

In an evaluation directed by Donald L. Alderman of ETS, TICCIT was found to have had a positive impact on student achievement. Students able to complete a course using TICCIT generally attained higher post - test scores, particularly in mathematics, than those reached by similar students using common teaching practices. Higher achievement in courses given on the TICCIT system was especially evident among students with a strong initial grasp of the subject matter.

The study also found that TICCIT had a negative effect on the likelihood that a student would complete all requirements for course credit during a single academic term. This outcome may be inherent in such a system, the report stated, because programs that allow students to proceed at their own pace risk losing those who have trouble managing their own instruction.

For example, in mathematics courses at one of the colleges only 16 of every 100 pupils enrolled received a grade with credit during an academic term, compared to an average of 50 percent for lecture classes. In English composition courses, 55 percent of TICCIT students finished requirements and earned credit within a single term, while the completion rate for lecture - discussion classes was 66 percent.

A Sharing Process. When the subject matter lent itself to active teacher participation, such as in reviewing essays or discussing themes, the gap in completion rates between TICCIT and lecture classes closed. "This specific result leads us to prefer a class in which the teacher and computer share in instructing students over one in which a computer system alone directs students learning," Mr. Alderman said.

Student attitudes toward TICCIT were more often less favorable than toward conventional classroom teaching methods, but when English classes taught on the TICCIT system were supplemented by small group discussion with an instructor, attitudes improved over those expressed for lecture - discussion classes.

ETS'S Richard T. Murphy, who directed the PLATO evaluation, and Lola Rhea Appel found no consistent positive or negative effects on student achievement or attrition — the drop - out rate — that could be linked to PLATO's use. The study determined, however, that PLATO provided a medium of instruction with broad appeal to both students and teachers. In fact, PLATO students showed more favorable attitudes toward computers and computer - assisted instruction than non - PLATO students.

About half the students thought that course material presented by PLATO helped them learn better than course material presented in class lectures. Large majorities (70 percent to 90 percent) said they continued their instruction on PLATO beyond the end of class, felt PLATO made good use of examples and illustrations, believed they could make mistakes without embarrassment and could take part in their instruction at each step in the lessons, and expressed a desire to take other PLATO courses.

Most disagreed that using PLATO was dehumanizing or boring, but a majority of students said it would not want entire courses taught on PLATO.

Observers found that pupils were not isolated from human contact, were able to request and receive help readily, and tended to interact with each other as well as with the PLATO system. Overall, studeots were attentive to their work, relaxed and enthusiastic, neither confused nor frustrated, and able to use PLATO terminals easily.

Instructors, too, were generally supportive of PLATO. Although nearly four in five teachers did not see the use of PLATO as leading to a decrease in their workload and one in three thought its use actually increased the amount of work, the vast majority intended to definitely or probably continue using it in courses

Majority in Favor of Proposal to Provide Separate Area for Smokers in Restaurants

A clear majority of New Jerseyans support a recent proposal of the Public Health Council requiring restaurants to provide separate sections for smokers and non-smokers.

The latest Eagleton Poll found that 63 percent favored the proposal, 32 percent opposed it and five percent were undecided. The Council recently agreed to postpone the effective date of the new rules from July 1 to February 1, 1979, after Attorney-General John Degnan found the proposed regulations to be "procedurely defective."

The Poll found that even a majority of smokers favored separate sections in restaurants by a narrow 51 to 46 percent margin. Non-smokers endorsed the proposal by an overwhelming 73 to 21 percent. The Poll found that just under half of adult New Jerseyans--47 percent--said they smoked

Almost half of those interviewed--44 percent--felt their health was endangered by other people smoking in public places. On the other hand, 51 percent felt that being near people smoking in public places did not make a great difference to their health.

Stephen A. Salmore, Director of the Eagleton Poll, explained that "concern about the possible health hazards of being near smokers is clearly related to support for separating smokers and non-smokers in restaurants. Those who saw a health problem favored the proposal by more than four to one, while those who did not think their personal health was threatened by others smoking were evenly divided."

Smokers and non-smokers differed on the possible effects of smoking on the health of non-smokers. Non-smokers, by 56 to 38 percent, felt that being near others who smoke endangered their health. Smokers, by 65 to 30 percent, took the opposite position that their smoking presented no health hazard to non-smokers.

TO HOST PICNIC

For Senior Citizens. Matthew B. Maxwell, a former Princeton University employee and senior citizen, will again act as host and master of ceremonies at the upcoming senior citizens' picnic, sponsored by Landau's. The affair will be held July 27 from 3 to 7 at Prospect.

Accompanying Mr. Maxwell as hostess will be Helen Sherman, who will enlist head hostesses for each table and act as official greeter. Coordinating private car transportation will be Martha Neilson for the Jaycees. Crosstown '62, under the direction of Beth Kaplowitz, will also be available.

Red Cross youth and AAUW members will be among those helping out at the picnic. Other organizations wishing to participate are asked to call Margaret Baker, coordinator, 921-2405.

The picnic this year will be limited to Princeton Borough and Township residents. Because of space limitations, no more than 300 can be accommodated comfortably.

ONE OF THE FINEST CONTEMPORARIES IN THE PRINCETON AREA!

Sourland Mountain, one of the Princeton area's most naturally beautiful spots, is the home of several fine contemporary homes which nestle in amongst the trees and boulders taking advantage of the slopes and natural sites. But few, if any of these offer the fine features and craftsmanship, creative floor plan, and fantastic view that you will find in this very special home. Designed by one of Princeton's leading architects, thoroughly familiar with the contemporary feeling, it has been placed beautifully on a select eight acre parcel which commands the whole ridge overlooking Hillsborough Township.

Dramatic on the inside, from its slate entry foyer and hallways to its fine wood cathedral ceilings where each room has been positioned to take advantage of its own special view. There's an expansive living room with a unique hearth, dining room with access to the deck and a kitchen to behold...fully equipped even with its own desk area, preparation counter, and breakfast nook with a neat view. Versatility is the key word for the family room wing which can also be used as a completely seperate unit for guests or an in-law arrangement. There's a good sized family room there, a separate efficiency kitchen, and a master bedroom suite with its own bath.

Downstairs, protected by the extremes of weather by the hillside, are four marvelous bedrooms, each with its own view, and includes another master suite with its own bath. There's also a large workshop, a laundry area, and plenty of storage space with closets built-in everywhere.

Additional features include central air conditioning, custom indirect lighting, built-in bookcases and cabinets throughout, and a sensational in-ground swimming pool with a natural stone patio surrounding it.

Princeton Resident for 60 Years Nears 100; Deafness May Have Contributed to Longevity

CENTENARIAN: Ernest Foster, a Princeton resident for 60 years, will celebrete his 100th birthday on Monday. He is shown being congratulated on his 99th birthday a year ago by a staff member at the Marcus Ward Homestead in Meplewood, where he now lives.

Princeton is sending birthday greetings and congratulations this week to Ernest Foster who will be 100 years old on Monday. Mr. Foster lived for more than 60 years in Princeton, most recently for six years as a guest in the Peacock Inn. He is currently at Ward Homestead in Maplewood.

Chuck and Agnes Swain, who took over the Peacock Inn in July, 1966, just after Mr. Foster's 88th birthday, became very good friends of the gentleman. "We kind of adopted him," Mrs. Swain says.

As Mr. Swain tells the story, Mr. Foster was born in England on July 10, 1878, into a working class family. In his youth he was the assistant or apprentice driver on horse drawn carriages. He wore a top hat, sat up beside the driver and jumped down when the carriage stopped to open the door for the passengers.

At age 16 he was kicked in the head by a horse, which rendered him deaf for the rest of his life. Mr. Swain theorizes that the deafness has been a contributing factor to his longevity--many of the stresses and strains of life passed him by because he couldn't hear them.

Gardener at Buckingham Palace. For a time, Mr. Foster was a gardener, and Buckingham Palace was one of the places where he tended the grounds. Then he found a job at a factory. In 1916 the Homasote Company in Trenton purchased the mill equipment of the English company for which Mr. Foster was working as a machine operator, and some of the factory employees and their wives, including the Fosters, were brought to this country.

He worked for Homasote until the early 1940's when the company became organized. One of the conditions of the labor package, as Mr. Swain reconstructs it, was the so-called "Sweetheart" clause which specified that the older men would be laid off without a pension in order to procure greater benefits for the younger union members.

Then in his early 60's, Mr. Foster found himself without a job and without a pension. He became a gardener and his wife the cook, for a family named Hough who lived on Lawrenceville Road. They lived on the grounds and worked for the family for 16 or 17 years, Mr. Swain thinks.

Mrs. Foster died in 1964 at age 85 while the couple were living at the Peacock Inn, and Mr. Foster went back to England for a visit to relatives. Accustomed by now to central heating, he found England too cold, he told the Swains, and settled in again at the Peacock Inn.

Man About Town. "He had a minute pension of about $70 a month," Mr. Swain recalls, "and we were glad to waive that and provide him with room and board." In return, Mr. Foster, a tall, slim, dignified man "who was always courteous and polite," would work around the inn. Mr. Swain says he thinks that all the bending and stooping and the walking up and down stairs many times a day have also contributed to Mr. Foster's longevity.

"He used to walk up town every day," Mr. Swain says. He had a standing bet with the girls at First National Bank that there would be snow in May. He usually won his bets because there usually were a few flakes in May. He also would stop in at Hinkson's on the way back to the Peacock Inn.

About five or six years ago an opportunity arose to have Mr. Foster go to what the Swains describe as "the loveliest place" in Maplewood, a baronial castle of 100 rooms with sweeping grounds that is run as a retirement home for men. Called Ward Homestead, it is run by a non-profit foundation which takes a few non-paying guests to keep its non-profit status.

The Swains visited Mr. Foster last year on his 99th birthday and found him still physically active. Using a cane, he walked the long stone corridors of the Homestead at almost a faster clip than they could keep up with. He is an avid reader of TOWN TOPICS, they say, and likes to keep up with what is going on in his adopted home town.

Summer Intime's Season Opens Pleasingly With Fun and Glitter of Moliere's 'Tartuffe'

MOLIERE AT SUMMER INTIME: Jamie Horton as Orgon and Dan Irvin as Cleante in the French comedy which continues through this weekend at Murray Theatre.

With Moliere's comedy "Tartuffe" as the attraction, Summer Intime inaugurates its 11th season at Murray Theatre with fun and glitter. A strikingly handsome production, it captures in large measure the wit and high style one associates with Moliere comedy.

Though billed as one of Moliere's masterpieces, "Tartuffe" could falter as a play without good actors to temper its faults. Moliere has furnished the satiric spirit and many comic situations, but he has also created some pretty improbable characters and he has given the play a slightly preposterous denouement.

News Of The THEATRES

The character of the hypocrite, Tartuffe, would be hard to match in real life. Even hypocritical people have occasional good traits; Tartuffe shows none.

Orgon, who has been duped by Tartuffe to the extent of making over to him all his worldly possessions including an unwilling daughter, is not just a fool but a caricature of a fool. His juggernaut of a mother, Madame Pernelle, is even more impermeable to reason than Orgon himself. In short, Moliere satirizes real human vices, but the stage figures who exhibit these faults are not always credible.

Full Circle Twist. As for the twist which gives the play its happy ending, only a very great or a very careless playwright would have the nerve to invent so unmotiviated a switch from imminent doom to unexpected happiness.

Putting reality aside, however, "Tartuffe" is great fun. Under Daniel Berkowitz's direction, the action is fast-paced, the humor broad, and the deportment and carriage genuine tongue-in-cheek 17th Century.

As Madame Pernele, Georgine Hall Freedman, Princeton's deservedly favorite stage matron, sweeps through the opening scene like a whirlwind, giving the play momentum which carries through most of the evening. As Orgon, the doting Tartuffe-worshiper, Jamie Horton gives another of his well-rounded comedy performances. He is well seconded by Dan Irvin as his brother-in-law Cleante, a sensible but fervid talker who reasons lengthily with Orgon but gets nowhere.

Melanie Haymond plays Orgon's wife, Elmire, with charm and restrained humor. Nancy Bleemer triumphs quietly by teetering between filial obedience and stirrings of revolt as his bullied daughter, Mariane. Her "reverse" love scene with her fiance, Valerie -- delightfully played by Len Galla -- is almost a show-stopper.

An Irreistible Maid. If there is one character likely to remain longest in this reviewer's memory, it is the impish maid Dorine, whose pertinent good sense and impertinent manner carry the fight against hypocrisy and stupidity. Margaret Emory is close to marvelous in this part. I am astonished that a lady's-maid could get away with such liberties toward her employer's family 300 years ago, but Miss Emory shows how she might have been irresistible.

As for Richard Bey's playing of Tartuffe, what can one say except that there must be various ways to play the part? To my mind, it was (on opening night) what Noel Coward once called "a vexing performance."

It employed poses and gestures which seemed studied rather than growing out of the character of Tartuffe. And Mr. Bey's 20th-century briskness and often flippant delivery were out of harmony with the rest of the company.

Clayton Platt, Dale Coye and Fred Ebert all take stage center at appropriate moments and add to the fun.

Much of what makes this "Tartuffe" memorable is its visual impact. Kevin Wilke's set is admirable: it doesn't call attention to itself, but every detail is clean and in taste, even to the solid double doors. And the lavish costumes proclaim that Julia Sly and Susie Lewis have both a sense of style and a sense of humor. Moliere would have approved.

Verdict: a show not to be missed. Four performances are scheduled for this week: Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30, and Sunday at 7:30. The box office number is 452-8181.

"HOLIDAY" NEXT

At Summer Intime. A comedy by Philip Barry, "Holiday," will be the next production at Summer Intime. Directed by Intime veteran Kimothy Cruse, it will open July 13 and run the next two weeks at Murray Theatre.

The play involves two beautiful sisters and a brash young man. Johnny, played by Jamie Horton, is in love with Julia Seton, portrayed by Margaret Emory. As the play progresses, Johnny begins to reject Julia's wealthy and shallow life style and to find himself drawn toward her sister, Linda, who is much more down to earth.

role of Linda, and Petie Duncan stars as Laura, the obnoxious cousin of the Seton sisters. Director Kimothy Cruse will play the role of Ned, the girls' inebriated brother, while Churchill Clark will portray their father.

Ice Cream Cabaret. Summer Intime is also preparing for the opening Friday of its Ice Cream Cabaret. This is a new offering this year and will be seen every Friday and Saturday night at 11:30 and Sunday nights at 10:30 in the Cafe adjacent to Murray Theatre.

Director Dale Coye says that "Songs and comedy will fill all the shows. Some will have themes; some will not. In short each cabaret will be a completely different, total piece of entertainment."

The shows will feature Mr. Coye, Suzie Lewis, Hilary Meserole, Camilla Carpenter, Fred Ebert and Len Galla. Iced tea, lemonade and lots of ice cream will be served. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

TRYOUTS SET

For "My Fair Lady." The classic Broadway musical, "My Fair Lady," will be the final selection of the 1978 season at Theatre-by-the-Lake at the Peddie School, Hightstown. Tryouts will take place Tuesday at 7 in Geiger Reeves Hall on the school campus, South Main and Ward Streets.

The musical is based on George Bernard Shaw's play, "Pygmalion." It tells the story of a dialectician-grammarian who uses a simple cockney girl as a subject for a six month experiment. His aim is to turn her into a lady, and with his success, he falls in love with his subject.

A strong soprano with good acting ability is required for the role of Eliza Doolittle, the cockney girl. The male lead of Henry Higgins requires a fine actor with excellent speech and a musical sense. There are several other good male and female roles and a large chorus of men and women.

Prospective actors may bring a resume, photograph and prepared song. Rehearsal will be in the evenings for four weeks and the production dates are August 17, 18 and 19. Jeffrey R. Holcombe of the Peddie School will direct, and Richard Anzuini of Hightstown High School will provide the musical direction.

For further information, call the theatre evenings at 443-4544 or Mr. Holcombe at 448-3526.

IN 'MAN OF LA MANCHA:' Wendy Cohen of Princeton appears in the play about Don Quixote, opening Saturday at the Artists Showcase Theatre in Trenton.

JAZZ-ROCK FIRST

In Summer Sounds Series. Summer Sounds will hold its first free, outdoor concert of this season on Friday at 7:30 when the jazz-rock group, "Mainstream" will play on Pardee Field on the University campus.

The concert is open to the public and those attending should bring blankets or camp chairs. The rain date is the following Friday, July 14.

"Mainstream" is an instrumental group which plays both the current jazz-rock that is popular today and jazz dating back to the 1940's. The manager of the group is Robert Davidson, who graduated from Princeton High School in '74.

Mr. Davidson composes about half the material played by the band and plays the lead guitar. For two years he was the musical director and composer for the Summer Intime Cabaret.

Other musicians include Jimmy Allington, the drummer, who has recorded with the jazz keyboard artist Larry Young; Angelo DiBraccio who plays the saxophone and has recently recorded with the Brecker Brothers for Polydor records; Chad Edwards a junior at Princeton who plays the keyboards; and David Ubanks, the bass player, who plays both the acoustic stand-up bass and the electric bass.

Summer Sounds will have four more concerts this summer on July 21, August 4, August 18 and September 1. Summer Sounds is supported by the Princeton Youth Fund in association with the Arts Council, the Recreation Department and Princeton University.

TRUFFAUT, CHAPLIN

In Summer Cinema. A pair of comedies by Truffaut and Chaplin will make up the third week of McCarter Theatre's Summer Cinema '78 series at Kresge Auditorium on Washington Road. Truffaut's "Stolen Kisses" and Chaplin's immortal "City Lights" will be the double feature presentation this Wednesday through Sunday.

The Truffaut film was the second installment in the director's "Antoine Doinel" cycle which began with "The 400 Blows." Jean-Pierre Leaud plays Doinel, and the film continues the on screen autobiography of Truffaut himself, including his dishonorable discharge from the army and his intially awkward but finally successful encounter with women. With Delphine Seyrig as Antoine's first love, "Stolen Kissess" points up Truffaut's special qualities as a romantic who is in touch with reality.

Considered by many to be his greatest masterpiece, Chaplin's "City Lights" was made in 1931, three years after the rest of Hollywood had converted to sound and dialogue. But Chaplin resisted the trend, and insisted on making his film as a silent screen pantomime, to which he added his own original musical score.

An almost perfect blend of comedy and drama, "City Lights" is perhaps Chaplin's most melancholy feature, and its final close-up remains one of the most touching moments in all motion picture. The supporting cast includes Virginia Cherrill (as the blind flower girl) and Jean Harlow (as an extra).

On Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday, the double-feature showing will start (with "Stolen Kisses") at 7:30, and the program will begin at 8 on Friday and Saturday. As a bonus, the two comedies will also be accompanied by a prize-winning short entitled "Hardware Wars," a spoof of "Star Wars."

CAST ANNOUNCED

For Street Theatre Production. Princeton Street Theatre will present "Bell, Book and Candle" July 19-29. It is all about what happens when a beautiful young witch casts a spell on a handsome, unsuspecting bachelor and then finds herself falling under her own spell.

Karen Schleyer will play Gillian. the young witch, and John Wible has been cast as Shep, the bachelor. Also performing are Amy London and Tom Merriman who will portray Miss Holroyd and Nicky, the eccentric aunt and the mischevious brother who add confusion and charm to the story.

Mark Shallcross has been cast as Sid Redlitch, the author out to hunt down witches for his book, "Witchcraft Around Us," which he is determined to make a best seller.

"Bell, Book and Candle" is directed by Debbie Bellow. Technical director and set designer is Ken Junkins, and Karen Schleyer will be prop coordinator and Rochelle Jacobs costume coordinator.

GOING BACK

30 YEARS AGO

July 8, 1948: Some things, like the man says, never change. This was TOWN TOPICS' evaluation of the post-war scene in Princeton in early July three decades ago, and some of the characteristics noted are valid today:

"Summer Takes Over. The July 4th weekend vanished with a blaze of fireworks, the thermometer boiled over into the 90s, the cry for a swimming pool was raised again, and Summer officially began. To all intents and purposes, it would last until September 7, the day after Labor Day.

"Smokers fretted over the new tax, housewives watched food costs move upward, Democrats speculated alternately as to what General Eisenhower would do and what would become of Harry Truman whether he did it or not. Housing remained tight, despite much new construction: this week, a young widow asked through TOWN TOPICS (page seven) for an apartment large enough so that she and her 11-month old son might live together under one roof.

"Vacation-bound families, writing to hotels for reservations, learned that the sellers' market in the field had died when their replies not only brought a promise of rooms but a cordially-phrased suggestion that they extend their visits. The second-hand car market, on the other hand, continued to boom long beyond its predicted demise and new models were as hard to get as ever. Anything else could be had for the asking if the cash was at hand. Generally speaking, it was.

"New Jersey was one of eight states into which 17-year locusts gleefully moved. Along with the other pleasures and problems of summer, they seemed here to stay. An eminent scientist warned, 'If their singing irritates you, don't spray them with DDT. DDT only makes them happy, and happy locusts only sing louder.'"

Other news notes from 1948: The Princeton Township School System, having seen a referendum for a $750,000 bond issue for expansion of its Valley Road building defeated at the polls, postponed until early fall a second such request of the voters.... New Jersey hoped to replace its policy of issuing new license plates every four years with permanent tags but was running into an aluminum shortage caused by the continuing need of the metal for airplanes.... 300 college oarsmen had taken over Lake Carnegie to compete in the U.S. Olympic trials.

25 YEARS AGO

July 5, 1953. Another aspect of the post-war scene had continued to play its part into the decade of the 50s, but by 1953, it was about to be phased out. The State Legislature passed a law requiring rent controls to expire on July 31.

A quarter-century ago, ground-work was laid for the conversion in 1978 of Atlantic City into Las Vegas East. In the summer of 1953, the Legislature voted to place on the November ballot a referendum seeking approval of bingo games run by veterans', religious and charitable organizations. The flame had been lighted under the burner that has now flared into gambling fever ballyhooed as the cure for an ailing city.

Advertisements in TOWN TOPICS of July, 1953 reflect the changes a quarter-century will bring:

- Savings accounts at the First National Bank paid 2 percent.
- Ground beef at the Union Food Market on Witherspoon Street was 39 cents a pound.
- New Model cars were featuring the latest safety feature: power brakes. A 1953 Packard four-door sedan cost $2676.
- The English Shop summer sale offered suits for $30 and polo shirts for $3.
- A picnic grill at Urken's cost $1.19.
- An "attractive, small, two-bedroom house" was offered for $11,800.

---

20 YEARS AGO

July 3, 1958. The Township's bulging school population necessitated plans for two more elementary schools. Identical in appearance, one would go in the Riverside area, the other on "the Johnson tract" near Rosedale Road.

Target date for completion: September, 1959.

As had been the case for most of the past quarter-century (the war years obviously excepted,) a huge fireworks display was scheduled for Independence Day in Palmer Stadium. Before darkness set in, musical moments were planned by the Princeton Community Band, directed by Bruce McKinney, the All-Girl Drum and Bugle Corps from Trenton's American Legion Post, with the national anthem to be sung by Paul Assenheimer.

Chairman of the committee planning the event for Princeton Post 76, American Legion, was Nathaniel J.

ONE PALMER SQUARE, 15 YEARS AGO: In July, 1963, there was nothing but a sign on a grassy plot of ground announcing the new home of Princeton Bank & Trust Co., which planned to move from its site on the corner of Bank Street. Groundbreaking ceremonies were held the first week in July with Mrs. Edgar Palmer wielding the first shovel of dirt. Joining Mrs. Palmer in the ceremonies were Borough Mayor Henry S. Patterson, right, and Fred M. Bleicher, president of Palmer Square, Inc. The late Edger Palmer was largely responsible for the concept and creation of Palmer Square, which will undergo one more expansion if plans are approved.

McKee. He was being assisted by Harold M. Hinkson, William Birch, Frederick Klink, D. Don Richards, Eric Jungburg, Lester Anderson, Norman Servis, Peter McCrohan, William Guinn and Samuel Davison.

A continuing shortage of parking spaces was a mounting Borough problem and Council President Dan D. Coyle was scheduled to offer a special report at the July Council meeting on the possibility of developing off-street parking along Nassau Street between Vandeventer and Moure.

In his weekly report to the press, Mayor Raymond F. Male had this to say on the subject:

"More and more, the Borough becomes the hub of a tremendous traffic flow in the growing area around us. Because the problems neither start nor stop within Borough limits, the Mayor plans to call together his colleague mayors from surrounding municipalities to consider joint action."

Parking meter receipts reflected the trend. Five years after meters were installed, receipts for the first six months of 1958 were $32,000--an increase of nearly 20 percent over the corresponding period a year earlier.

On the business scene 20 years ago, construction of the new University Store on University place was nearing completion. Moving from the center of the campus, where it had been for half a century, it was scheduled to open on September 2.

Another major move was the departure from Nassau Street of Opinion Research to its new location in Research Park, near the intersection of Harrison Street North and Terhune Road. ORC was about to begin its third decade in Princeton.

Frank Shelton, who established a Chrysler-DeSoto-Plymouth agency here in 1942, sold the business to Anthony D. Nini, who had been associated with him in its Witherspoon Street location since 1947.

Elsewhere on Witherspoon Street, plans were being made to open a new restaurant in mid-September. To be known as King's Court, its proprietors were Norman Aaronson and Robert Sauber.

15 YEARS AGO

July 4, 1963: Upper Pyne, a Princeton landmark for more than half a century, was finally scheduled for demolition (after unavailing protests by nostalgia and architectural buffs) to make way for One Palmer Square, the five-story office building that had been on the drawing boards since the Square was first conceived in 1936. While ground was broken for the Square in 1937, it took another quarter-century for need for the eastern portion of the development to be fulfilled.

In the summer of 1963, Princeton was unusally hot and unusually dry. July temperatures were in the 90s (one reading reached 96), but to make matters worse, the land was parched. During the 90-day period from April 1 to June 30, a mere four inches of rain had fallen--about a third of the normal amount. TOWN TOPICS carried a picture of Stony Brook with just a trickle of water-less than three feet wide--meandering along its stony bed.

In TOWN TOPICS' sports pages in the summer of 1963, note was made of the death from a heart attack a week earlier of Dave Allderice, one of the top quarterbacks in the history of Princeton football. Playing in the era just prior to World War II, when football was a two-way game, he set passing records that were not broken until Dick Kazmaier rewrote the book in the early 50s. On a cold, gray October afternoon in 1940, before more than 50,000 at Pennsylvania's Franklin Field, Allerdice completed 24 of 36 passes for 351 yards--a mark that still stands in 1978.

Plans That Never Made It: A story in July, 1963, reaffirmed the existing belief that the railroad station on University Place would be relocated--farther down the tracks toward the Junction. With that in mind the University planned "to build a new major entrance to the campus with a plaza at the foot of University Place."

In July, 1963, TOWN TOPICS' Man of the Week was Gov. Richard J. Hughes, recognized for his achievement in persuading the Democratic national committee to select Atlantic City as the site for its convention in 1964. Before it could be held, the nominee would be Lyndon B. Johnson and not John F. Kennedy.

PRINCETON RESIDENTS AID MUSEUM: Mrs. Burton Peskin, a Trustee of the Friends of the N.J. State Museum, models a century-old mandarin robe that she has donated for the Aquisitions '78 auction. At left is Walter F. Gips Jr., former Friends board chairman, and at right is Dr. Sidney Merians, current chairmen of the auction.

PERSIA IS THEME

Of Museum Fund-Raiser. A coordinated series of exhibitions, demonstrations, lectures and films will examine the Persian past and the nomadic culture and native crafts to present time next fall at the New Jersey State Art Museum.

These events will culminate October 21 with a party and auction to raise funds for expansion of the museum's fine art and cultural history collections. The project will be known as Acquisitions '78.

Sponsored by the Friends of the State Museum, Acquisitions '78 represents a year-long search for treasures which will be sold at the auction party. It is being planned by a statewide committee headed by Mrs. Robert D. Graff of Far Hills. Dr. Sidney Merians of 114 Elm Road is chairman of the board of the Friends and chairman of the auction.

Included among the public activities are an exhibition of nomadic rugs and animal covers, a lecture-demonstration on nomadic weaving techniques, a multi-media presentation by artist-photographer Kipton Kumler and a film series tracing Persia's dramatic history. At the same time there will be a preview exhibition of the paintings, American antiques and art objects from many cultures donated for the October 21 auction.

The auction will take place in an indoor tennis pavilion at Far Hills in which the Persian ceremonial capitol at Persepolis will be recreated for the evening. Built by Darius I in the 6th century B.C., Persepolis epitomized the grandeur of the Persian culture for almost two centuries before it was torched by Alexander the Great. Present-day nomads still camp near this ancient city during their annual migration as they have for many generations.

Letters are currently being mailed to more than 2,000 members of the Friends organization and others who have supported the Museum in the past, urging them to help underwrite the Acquisitions '78 expenses as guarantors, sponsors or patrons. Guarantors will receive six tickets for the festive October 21 auction party, sponsors four tickets and patrons two tickets.

Information on all phases of the project is available in the Friends Office on the second floor of the Museum, 394-5310.

"WHAT WONDERFUL WOODS!" CRIED ALICE

Of course, we replied.

Our custom made tables are made of nothing less than the best woods in the forest.

Oaks and walnuts and maples. A full two inches thick, and not a centimeter less. Laminated together to make a butcher block top that's pure prime choice.

What's more, we added, your table can be round or square or rectangular, big or small, tall or short. It can be a coffee table, a dining table, an office table or just a table table. You even have your choice of bases. Leg and apron. Wood pedestal. Chrome pedestal. Trestle or H-slab. Tops and bases are all smoothly sanded and ready to finish in the wink of a mad hatter's eye with oil, varnish or stain. Stop in the first chance you get (perhaps today, right after tea)...and take a look at our tables and all our other fine and wonderful hardwood furniture.

PRINCETONIAN WINS

Takes Boys' Singles Title. The Princeton Boys Open tennis tournament ended Friday, after five days of match play.

Scott Clark of Princeton, the number one seed in the 16 and under singles, defeated six opponents, to reach the finals of the 16 and under. In the finals, he defeated the number five seed, Greg Williams of Philadelphia, 7-6, 6-0, to clinch the title.

Clark almost became a double winner, but he and his partner, Carl Muench of Monmouth County lost a close 6-4, 3-6, 7-6 match to Greg Williams and Tim Greene of Philadelphia in the 16 and under boys doubles finals. The final set was determined by a 5-4 tie-breaker after the two sides had battled to a 6-6 tie in the deciding set.

Ken Hallows of Princeton advanced to the quarter-finals of the boys 145, defeating his opponent, 6-3, 6-3 before losing. Other Princetonians competing were John Whitehead. Keith Goldfeld. Peter Tevebaugh, Michael Crystal, Bob Bowen, Roger Carlson, Charlie Han, Steve Ellis and Glenn Celveland. Ken Katz of New Rochelle, N. Y., won.

Also in the 16s from the Princeton Community Program were Tom Kimball, who lost to Clark in the quarter-finals, 6-0, 6-4; Jim Noble, Jamie Hughes, Mark Myrick, Mark Farina, John Denny, Ben Camper, Alde Witonsky, Chip Zahner, Tad Bull, David Yim, Eric Granade, Richard Klubeck, George Gallup, Scott MacLeod, Jeff Levy and Roger Dinella.

Winner of the boys 18 and under singles was Eric Riley of Malvern, who defeated Robin Lorndale of Wynnwood, Pa. in three sets, 2-6; 7-6; 6-0. Among the Princeton players competing in the event were Jon Drabek, David Blake, Greg Sheperd, Dan Willingham, David Ellis, Allen Aronovic and Peter Ellis.

Heading the doubles event for boys 14 and under were Princetonian Glenn Cleveland and his partner, Ken Katz, who were seeded number 1. Although they succumbed in the quarter-finals to the winners of the event, they displayed some excellent tennis in earlier rounds.

A WINNER: Scott Clark was the victor in the 16-and-under division of the Princeton Boys' Open Tennis Tournament.

Kirsten Beske of Princeton Junction reached the semi-finals in the Pier 30 14's and under girls championships last week at Philadelphia. She advanced to the semi-finals by defeatin Maureen Rieley second seed, 6-4, 6-2.

Kirsten, who was ranked No. 8 in the girls' 12 and under singles for the Middle States Tennis Association for 1977, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Beske of Sherbrooke Estates, West Windsor.

POST 76 ERUPTS

For 10-3 Victory. Princeton Post 76 has too good a team to keep losing those one-run decisions and Thursday night at Clarke Field it erupted for a 10-3 victory over Hopewell Post 339. The win was Princeton's third of the season and second over Hopewell.

True, Princeton benefitted from some sloppy play by Hopewell. Jon Miller and Dave Easton each singled in runs in the second when Princeton scored seven times to erase an early 2-0 Hopewell lead.

sent two more runs across and three more came in on errors. Hopewell was guilty of an eye-raising 10 miscues, half of them coming in the second inning.

Seven of Princeton's 10 hits came off the bats of Jeff and Easton and Keith Phox who had two apiece. Al Kandell was the winning pitcher. It was Princeton's third game in as many days.

The previous day belonged to Hamilton Post 31, last year's American Legion champions.

Hamilton hurler Jim Rivera (2-3) tossed a four-hitter and struck out six as his teammates coasted to a 14-2 win. Jon Luse (0-3) was charged with the loss.

Hamilton did all its damage in the middle innings, scoring five in the third, three in the fourth and six in the fifth. Princeton scored its two in the fourth. Jon Miller, Kandell, Lechowicz and Keith Greener accounted for Princeton's four safeties.

A game between the same two teams a day earlier was a

Here's an oddity ... Although the New York Yankees won the world championship of baseball last season, NONE of their players led the league in ANY major category ... For example, Rod Carew of Minnesota led the league in hitting, Larry Hisle of Minnesota led in runs batted in, Jim Rice of Boston led in homers, Fred Patek of Kansas City led in stolen bases, Frank Tanana of California led in earned run average, and no Yankee pitcher won 20 games--yet the Yanks still won the pennant and World Series.

Here's a believe-it-or-not from baseball ... Big league player Rico Carty once hit TWO home runs in ONE time at bat! ... In a game a few years ago, Carty hit a pitch over the left field wall for a homer, but the umpire ruled that time had been called just as the pitch was on its way ... So Carty stepped back into the batter's box, the pitcher threw again, and Carty hit one over the left field wall again--in the same time at bat.

How many miles per gallon do automobiles get in races like the Indianapolis-500? ... In this year's Indianapolis race, winning driver Al Unser got just 1.8 miles per gallon of fuel ... Most other cars didn't even do that well, averaging about 1.5 miles per gallon.

lot closer, but it still added up to another Princeton loss. Princeton gave it away in the last inning.

It's "gift" was a two-run error which allowed Hamilton to tie the game and then with the bases loaded Luse walked Dave Mercurio to force in the winning run. The final score was 7-6.

Princeton had jumped to a 4-0 run in the first and it added two more fourth to stay ahead until the fateful seventh. Phox had three hits and Jon Miller two while Kandell added a double. Hamilton was limited to four hits--half of Princeton's output. Princeton, however, was guilty of four errors, twice as many as the winners.

POST 76 BOWS

To Southern Leader. Princeton Post 76 held the winningest team in the American Legion Baseball League, Trenton Post 93, leader in the Southern division with a 12-1 record, at bay through four innings Saturday, but then crumpled in the fifth when Trenton pushed across five runs. Trenton went on to win the contest, 10-5.

After scoring the game's first two runs in the third, Princeton allowed a run in the fourth. In the fifth, Trenton tied it at 2 on a double by Jeff Migliaccio and Fred York's single. Another single, Guy Chiarello's two-run double and an error sent four more runs across and Trenton had the lead for good.

Al Kandell drove in three Princeton runs with two hits, while Keith Phox, his teammate on the Princeton High School baseball team this spring, had two safeties, including a double. Together they accounted for five of Princeton's six hits off winning pitcher John Spiegel (4-0). Steve Miller (2-2) took the loss.

McCARTHYS WIN TITLES

In Indoor Tennis. The father-son team of Jack McCarthy and son, Jack III, won three titles at the annual Princeton Indoor Tennis Center championships held last week.

The younger McCarthy, 3t, defeated Peter Benchley, 6-3,6-2 in the finals of the men's singles, and then teamed with his father to win the men's doubles final, 6-1, 6-2, over Carl Pfeifer of Princeton and Mike Klein of Lawrenceville.

The elder McCarthy earned his second trophy of the tournament in the mixed doubles competition with Robbie Ross. The pair took a 7-5, 6-3 decision from David Salzman and Jane Huff of Cranbury.

This was the second consecutive year the McCarthys had captured the men's doubles crown, and the second time in two years that the younger McCarthy had prevailed in the singles final.

In the women's division, Robbie Ross defeated Connie Haynes in the singles final 6-3, 6-4. The doubles title was captured by Mary Pickens and Karen Sairdee, 6-3, 6-3 winners over Georgie Brenna and Jane Huff.

KOFFEE KUP ROLLS ON

In Women's Softhall. Koffee Kup continued its mastery in the Women's Softball League, recording its 22nd straight win last week with an easy 30-9 rout of Landau's. Once again it was a balanced attack led by Judy Grisham, Vernell Carr and Sonnie Young that made it easy. Jane Barrish's hitting paced Landau's.

Sweet Jersey Corn kept pursuit with a 10-2 victory over Ivy Inn. Dee Pearce with a homer and four RBIs led the attack, while Susan Cohen handled nine defensive chances flawlessly. Carol Mazzella and Isobel Chenowith led Conte's attack, which annihilated Brener Brothers, 39-0.

Down 5-4 going into the bottom of the last inning, Kingston Wine rallied for two runs to edge Community Liquors, 6-5. Joan McCormack's double, a sacrifice fly by winning pitcher Maria Kearns and a single by Joanne Eagle scored the winning tally.

Triple-A Taxi jumped off to a 7-0 lead against the Zephyrs and went on to win, 13-7. Terri Halpin's big hat, a great defense and Diane Davalos' first career homerun provided the spark. Wendy Ottey's hitting kept Zephyrs in the game.

THE ETERNAL LEADER

Roma Is 6-0. Roma Eterna remained unbeaten last week in the Princeton Youth Baseball Assoiciation League, when it flattened Century 21, 20 to 1, for its sixth win.

Most of the runs were given up by walks, although Jimmy Sharp hit a triple and Andrew Bing slammed a double. Monica Greenland and Tony Curtis each hit triples for Century. Winning pitcher Kyle Stephans struck out 12.

Another big win occurred when Engine Company No. 1 defeated the Elks, 16 to 4. Winning Pitcher Joe O'Grady belted two home runs along with Jon Soderburg, who also hit a triple. Richard Di Bianco had two singles and a double and Melanie Nosal and Billy Scott each hit doubles for the losers.

Contract Awarded, Community Park Courts Should Be Lighted Before End of August

After years of waiting, lights are coming to the Community Park tennis courts.

At its meeting last week, the Princeton Recreation Board voted to accept the $42,430 bid of Molnar Electric Company of Woodbridge. "We hope by the end of August the lights will be installed and ready to go," commented Donald Barr, executive director of the Recreation Department.

Subtracted from the cost will be $15,000 that Mr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Smoyer of 86 Olden Lane donated last year as a community gesture toward the installation of lights. This is the second time that bids have been awarded, Mr. Barr stated. The first time they were too high.

Only the six hard-surface courts will be illuminated. The lights will not be coin-operated like those at the paddle tennis courts but there will be a fee on a ticket-type basis for their use.

Consistent with the olympic-size pool and tennis courts at Community Park, the high pressure sodium lights selected by the board are a first-rate system.

"A lot of research went into this--what tennis players like, what would be most economical in terms of the energy shortage, what would give the most light and what would be least objectional to neighbors," said Mr. Barr. "We feel we've come up with a unique tennis-lighting facility; we feel we've done something we can be proud of and that it will be an asset the players will use."

Concerned with Orange Glow. The Recreation Board was concerned, Mr. Barr reported, with tennis players objecting to the orange glow that sodium light gives off. They visited other courts. They checked with an architect who installed a high pressure sodium system at Texan Christian University. "We found it doesn't affect play at all," he said.

Actually, when a player throws a ball up to serve, he will see only the rectangle side fixture; he won't see the bulb at all. There will be no problem seeing the ball. There will be more than enough light to permit a good caliber of tennis, Mr. Barr proposed.

A high pressure sodium system is the most efficient, Mr. Barr explained, because it produces the most foot candles of light for the least amount of money. "It's the trend of the near future and we have to keep abreast of what's going on in the country."

Mounted on six poles, the lights will be the least objectionable to neighbors, Mr. Barr predicted, because of their high "cutoff." Unlike floodlights which spill their light in a wide area, these sodium lights are designed to direct their light downward in a small area. "There is very little light spillage or light pollution," Mr. Barr said.

DAVID YIM CHOSEN

As Tennis Memorial Recipient. David Yim of Princeton has been chosen as this year's recipient of the Edie Raser Memorial Scholarship.

The fund, established last year by Terry Merrick, Ann Merritt and Ginny Winegar in memory of Edie Raser, who was killed in a boating accident in 1976, provides a deserving junior with the opportunity to participate in the Princeton Community Tennis Program's junior training program.

Yim, a ninth grader and long-time participant in the Community Tennis Program, has shown consistent improvement, qualifying him to receive this year's scholarship.

COURT TIME AVAILABLE

At County Tennis Center. The Mercer County Park Commission has announced that seasonal courts are still available at the indoor tennis center.

Registration for these courts will be accepted on a first-come first-served basis at the Park Commission offices, 640 South Broad Street on Monday, July 17 at 9 a.m. Residents must have identification for both owner and co-owner. CAHILL LEAVES TOWN

Returns to South Jersey. Former Governor William T. Cahill, who has lived and worked in Princeton since leaving Morven five years ago, had begun to practice law with his son in Camden and has purchased a house in Haddonfield.

The former governor was a Republican congressman from the Sixth District, which includes parts of Burlington and Camden counties in South Jersey, when he was elected governor in 1969. "He stayed in Princeton because his children were in school up there," said his son, William T. Cahill Jr., "but now that they've finished, I think he just wanted to come back."

Governor Cahill taught briefly at Princeton University after his term as governor and then joined a Princeton law frim which became Cahill, McCarthy and Hicks. That firm is now again known as McCarthy and Hicks. The firm in Camden has been renamed Cahill, Wilinski and Cahill.

The former governor and his wife have lived at 59 Talbot Lane in Princeton. That house is being sold.
